Co-driver Races to Milwaukie to Wire Rally Car for Third-Lane Motorsports

Jason Lane left work early Friday to drive non-top (no bathroom breaks even) from Burnaby, British Columbia to Milwaukie, Oregon. His mission: to wire the Third-Lane Group 2 rally car ASAP! Untangling an intestine of loomed wires, the young electrician spent the weekend teasing out and connecting the VW Golf's wiring. Tightening and testing connections late into Saturday night (while his driver and service crew chief watched "Jackie Brown" on TV), Jason once again demonstrated the unflinching commitment and enthusiasm for rallysport that marks this international team. At the end of the day: lights, horn and turn signals!! A job well done.

Racing Against Time: Third-Lane Work to Prepare VW Golf for 2000 Rally Season.

In an all-out drive to build a rally car worthy of their team talents, Noah Third and Jason Lane are spending all their free time working on the new VW Golf. The car, a vibrant daffodil yellow, sits "gutted" in the driver's well-equipped---if incredibly cluttered, garage surrounded by "raw materials" (reusable parts) and new components from sponsors, Autotech Sport Tuning, the Driver's Edge Autosport, Drummond Motorsports (Dave Clark) and tires from Silverstone (Tabor Rally Team).

On the Road?

Well, Not Quite...

Third-Lane Motorsports Almost Out of the Garage

The service truck is ready. But, for the time being, watching rally videos and working events replace “the real thing” for this rally team. Still wanted: money, tires, money, wheels, money, VW parts, money, spare VW parts, and money.
